Tamtam: Disconnected and dreamy, an eerie contrast to the countless tiny holes that riddle their body. Idly seeking something called the Forever Stone, but doesn't remember why.

Cobalt: Appears more armoured than he is, but the sculpted metal can't hide his boyish enthusiasm for alchemy, natural science, and even household maintenance. Would like to see more of the world.

Sevash Hunak: Aspiring sorcerer-priest, already sporting the first of many steel studs in his flesh. His current focus is forgotten gods, and he will offer service in return for new lore.

Kutallak: Driven and prone to black moods, a smith specializing in unusual alloys. Scarred by forge accidents and a scattering of old injuries
